How to use this book

Now that your child is starting in the setting we want to get to know them better.

It is important that we know all about them so that we can make sure that we provide the care and education that is best for them.

There are headings on some of the pages, but you can add your own information if you want to. There are some ideas of the information you may like to include. You can put photos and drawings in too.

Let your child help you decide what needs to be put in.

Please feel free to discuss with staff anything that is confidential that you do not want to put in this book.

Parents will use this booklet in different ways. The most important thing is that staff can appreciate your child's uniqueness.
